Introduction:

Cryptocurrency is a blockchain based platforms which is completely decentralised. As a financial based blockchain, is not governed by any central bank or monetary authority. It is rather maintained by a peer-to-peer community computer network made up of users' machines or “nodes”.

Cryptocurrencies hold the promise of making it easier to transfer funds directly between two parties, without the need for a trusted third party like a bank or credit card company. used to buy goods and services, but uses an online ledger with strong cryptography to secure online transactions. Bitcoin is both a currency and a technology. At its core, Bitcoin is peer to peer electronic money with one express objective. The objective is to replace the intermediation and trust vested on centralised financial institutions.

Cryptocurrency is important for fast transaction, digital, secure and worldwide, which in essence allow the maintenance of records without risk of data being pirated. Fraud is, actually, minimized. Also, as an aside, digital currency such as Bitcoin should not result in inflation. The total number of bitcoins which can ever be mined is limited to approximately 21 million, so there is no way the total amount of cash in the system can be increased by any central bank

Crypto, or digital, or virtual currencies have created a paradigm shift in the way we look at money. The way we look at potentially buying it. The way we look at potentially spending it. Just be careful buying it.

Objective:

It has been organised to make awareness in the area of Cryptocurrency. This workshop will be beneficial for further research interests in cryptography and cryptocurrencies for researchers in this area. We expect to explore novel concepts and ideas in the field of Cryptocurrency.
